

RESEARCH WORKSHOP
EXAM PERFORMANCE AND TEST-TAKING BEHAVIOR

Universidad Carlos III de Madrid, 5th July, 2024

Venue: UC3M Puerta de Toledo Campus, Madrid.

Main entrance to campus located here

Room: 1.A.12

Friday 5th July, 2024

10:00-10:15	Welcome
10:15-11:00	Germán Reyes: “Cognitive endurance, talent selection, and the labor market returns to human capital”
11:00-11:45	Claudia Finger: “Do (optional) admission tests increase or decrease student diversity? Evidence from selective university admissions in Germany”
11:45-12:15	Coffee break
12:15-13:00	Gema Zamarro: “The role of motivation and effort in test performance: gender gaps across countries with different gender inequality”
13:00-13:45	Pau Balart: “Schedule effect on exam performance: evidence from higher education”
13:45-15:00	Lunch
15:00-15:30	Jan Stuhler: “Exam performance and persistence: new evidence from high-stakes exams on digital platforms”
15:30-16:00	Patricia Lorente: “Gender differences in persistence on high stakes tests”
16:00-16:30	Jonas Radl: “Preparation periods and performance on university exams”
16:30-17:15	Coffee break
17:15-18:00	Matthijs Oosterveen: “Teacher bias or measurement error?”
18:00-18:30	Joint discussion: Future directions of research on exam performance and test-taking behavior

If you want to attend, please send an email to Laura G. Llamas (lgllamas@pa.uc3m.es) for confirmation.